(By A. P. Correspondent)
Berlin, Aug. 27.—Nearly four weeks of the European war have passed as this is written. A series of gigantic battles have been fought along the western front from Brussels to the Swiss frontier.

On the east the Russians have poured into East Prussia, and as yet the regular, detailed features of the war news for the German public are the daily casualty lists. War bulletins furnish scant reading for anxious German eyes. The army leaders can announce the rout of eight French army corps in 48 hours but day after day the Official Gazette rolls out its staggering list of killed, wounded and missing at the rate of nearly a thousand a day. These cover only the preliminary fighting of the great struggle on the French frontier. The reports from the great battles near Metz, Louvecy and Neuchateau, with their thousands of casualties are yet to come.

The names march by in long columns of the Official Gazette arrayed with military precision by regiments and companies, batteries or squadrons. For conditions are lessened usually by the names of the officers killed or wounded then come the casualty lists. The first 48 names are principally from rifle or shrapnel fire. A scanty few in the cavalry are labeled "lance thrusts," indicating that as yet the favorite weapon of the European cavalry has not done the damage expected of it, although the latest reports of the war correspondent in the east indicate that the lance is now coming more into play in the engagements between the Russian and German cavalry. Only one death from sickness has been reported.

War has brought in its train widespread involuntary illness in spite of the millions of men withdrawn from productive employment. Factories are closing down or running short handed and the pinch of non-employment is felt everywhere among the working classes. Symptoms of it are seen in the numbers of working men appearing on the streets as beggars or seeking other unusual employment and in the heavy calls for assistance from the municipal labor union funds. The largest labor union in the Berlin district, that of the metal workers, with 84,000 members, reports 1,600 unemployed although some 15,000 members are with the troops in the field. Of the 52,000 members of the truck men and transport workers union, one-tenth are idle. The wood cutters union reports 11,000 of its 27,000 members out of work. Of some 7,000 unorganized wood workers, largely employed in the piano industry, only 140 are at work. The book binders have 3,000 of their 8,500 members to support. Other branches of industry report similar conditions.

Some working overtime. Some trades, however, are affected in the opposite direction. Bakers and butchers are being advertised for, so many having been called into the field service with the troops that for a time bread and meat were feared. Brewers are also in demand from the cafes and restaurants where the public gather to await war news; and saddlers, tailors and carpenters are working overtime to supply the needs of the army.

Advocates Declaration of War on the Germans by the United States

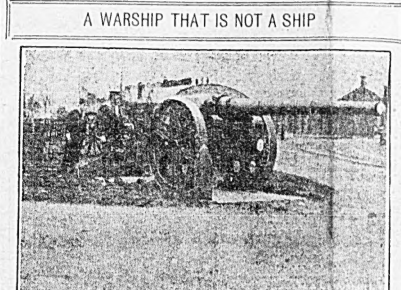

London, Sept. 8.—Professor W. M. Hale, of the University of Chicago, who, as he recently called, advocates an immediate declaration of war by the United States against Germany for the latter's violation of the Hague convention, particularly in the use of floating mines and the destruction of Louvain, has just arrived from France.

"The United States," he said to the correspondent, "should immediately declare war on Germany as a violator of the Hague agreement. What has always been wanted is a sanction for the parts of nations. There could be no more effective sanction than the declaration of a great nation, outside the immediate conflict, that there is a party they shall, so far as lies in her power, be kept sacred."

Austrian Monarch Died 12 Days Ago Says Associated Press

London, Sept. 8, (3:35 p.m.)—The African War, a weekly publication has received information through what it regards as a reliable source to the effect that the Austrian Emperor Francis Joseph died 12 days ago. The news of the emperor's death was suppressed in Austria-Hungary, the paper says, on account of the dangerous internal situation.

From a North Battleford Reader of the Capital—
One of Many Coming in North Battleford, September 3, 1914.

To the Editor of the Capital:—
"I cannot refrain longer from an expression of appreciation and admiration of the splendid editorials which are appearing from time to time in your paper.

"In the issue of today your article 'Ridiculous Hypocrisy of Monarchs' and 'The Rapid Descent to Barbarism' are articles which should occupy the front page, under heavy headlines.

"It is certainly refreshing at this time, when the very air is saturated with cant and hypocrisy, to have such clear-cut, fearless conceptions exposed.

"I am a British subject, and as such am just as anxious that the British forces should overcome the enemy as any British subject. I think Britain's action in the present conflict was forced upon her, and anything less than the empire is doing would be dishonorable.

"But let us face the facts as they are, not in any spirit of loyalty, but as men who are supposedly civilized and Christian.

"The war is a disgrace to vaunted culture and refinement. It is absolutely opposed to any known ethics of righteousness, Christian or otherwise. It is cruel, unjust, barbarous and disastrous.

"This war is the supreme sin of the world, born of pride and avarice on the part of its promoters, and blind ignorance on the part of its victims.

"Unroll to your readers the iniquity and horror of war, turn back the crimson mantle of so-called glory, let them see the gasping wounds of countless millions.

"Enlighten and enthrone the people who come within your sphere that in this great conflict war should exterminate itself, from the groins of the dying the greatest crusade the world has ever known, which shall be for the cessation of armaments.

"Would to God all editors had as clear a conception of true conditions as you have."

Enemy Retreating in Galicia
Leaving Guns and Wounded on Field.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The Russian embassy here today issued the following statement in regard to the movement of the Russian army:

"On Sept. 5, our troops took the strong fortifications of Mikolae, on the Dniester river. The moats of these works were covered by flanking fire, the artillery placed in steel cupolas and the whole of the works surrounded by a triple line of wire, entanglements. We took 40 guns and large stores of supplies and ammunition. In northern Galicia serious fighting is going on at Rawa Ruska. The first Austrian army which had been advancing toward Lublin and Kholm, is retreating before the onslaught of our troops. We are taking prisoners, guns and ammunition.

"In one of the field hospitals that fell into our hands, we found that 20 Austrian soldiers were suffering from dysentery. This illness is sweeping the ranks of the enemy.

"In East Prussia only skirmishing is taking place."

STATES WESTERN CROP WILL BRING FARMERS MUCH AS LAST YEARS'

Winthrop, Sept. 8.—According to S. A. Bedford, deputy minister of agriculture, the farmers of the west will get quite as much for their wheat crop this year as they got last, notwithstanding the much smaller yield. High prices and relatively low expenses for harvesting and threshing will do the trick. In preparation for the biggest crop the province has ever harvested, the farmers are now straining every nerve at fall plowing. Threshing in the Red River valley is nearly completed says the deputy minister, and harvest hands, instead of being turned off, are kept busy plowing. Every available acre will probably be cropped next year.

Left Wing of Defenders Including Force Stationed Near Paris Continues to Make Progress—Teutons Retiring in the Direction of the Marne River French Troops Re-Occupy Mandry and the Peak of Fournieux—No Change in Situation in the Province of Alsace—Kaiser's Men Are Steadily Losing Ground.

An official communication issued at Paris this afternoon says that the left wing of the allied armies, comprising portions of the force defending Paris, continues to make progress. The advance reaches from the banks of the river Ourcq into the region of Montmirail. The Germans are retreating in the direction of the Marne river, between Meaux and Sezanne.

Paris, Sept. 8.—(2:32 p.m.)—French and English troops engaged in the battle now progressing to the east of the capital have taken numerous prisoners, including a battalion of German infantry and a company serving rapid fire guns. They captured also many gun carriages.

Paris, Sept. 8.—(3:25 p.m.)—The movement of retirement of the Germans near Virly-Francois is continuing. On the French right a German division attacked the Axis of Chateau Solina and Nancy but were repulsed to the northward passing Fere Champenoise.

Farther to the east the French troops re-occupied Mandry and the peak of Fournieux. There is no change in the situation in the province of Alsace.

Paris, Sept. 8.—Violent encounters have occurred on the French center between Fere Champenoise and Virly le Francois at the southern point of the forest of Argonne. The French have not fallen back anywhere. The Germans have lost ground.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The French embassy today received from Bordeaux under last night's date the following:

"The German right wing on the Ourcq and Grand Morin has been attacked with advantage to our troops. On the line Meaux-Virly le-Franco the battle today became general."

Paris, Sept. 8.—(8:15 p.m.)—It is reported unofficially in Paris this afternoon that the Germans to the east of the city have asked for an armistice to bury their dead and care for their wounded.

It is understood that this request has been refused by the allies.

Paris, Sept. 8, (5:10 p.m.)—The leading military authorities of the city are convinced that General Joffre, commander in chief of the French forces, is at last holding at bay the vast German army of invasion.

The worn out troops of Emperor William, who may constitute an army totalling 750,000 men are today encountering the relatively fresh soldiers of the French and British armies upon ground selected by the allies, and in positions within easy reach of supplies and reinforcements.

GERMAN AEROPLANES AT RUSSIAN FRONTIER SHOT DOWN MEN WILL SOON ARRIVE

London, Sept. 8 (10:27 a.m.)—A special despatch to the Star from Petrograd announces that many German aeroplanes are appearing on the Russian frontier heralding the arrival of reinforcements.

The Germans seem to possess a powerful force in the Posen district, the Star correspondent says, as they move their troops from Posen to East Prussia, or Galicia, as occasion requires.

WASHINGTON GIVES OUT OFFICIAL CROP REPORT

Washington, Sept. 8.—Prospects for the spring wheat decreased 15,000,000 bushels and for the corn crop 25,000,000 bushels owing to unfavorable weather during August. Indications now are for a spring wheat crop of 2,211,000,000 bushels and a corn crop of 2,518,000,000 bushels according to the department of agriculture forecast issued today. Prospects of oats decreased 27,000,000 bushels, but tobacco prospects increased 71,000,000 pounds. August, 1,000,000,000 bushels and sweet potatoes 5,000,000.

SAYS GERMANS MAY BE OUTFLANKED BY THE RUSSIAN ARMY

Credence Given to Report that 250,000 Muscovites Now in France.

London, Sept. 8.—(1 p.m.)—A Russian army, said to number 250,000 men, is according to the Home Tribune, in France. The Tribune is considered well informed regarding Russian movements. Official confirmation of the report is refused at the press bureau.

Experts here are of the opinion that the Germans who heretofore have been the outflankers are in danger of being outflanked and of being compelled to accept a front attack from the allies, who now are on the offensive. This struggle in which the combatants are totalling in millions, is likely to end and flow for a week before a decisive result is reached.

Great strategic importance attaches to the Russian capture of the fortress of Nicolaioff in Austria-Galicia. It is situated at a junction of the railroad and has strong low shaped fortifications and entrenchments on banks of the river Dniester to protect the railroad bridges. The population of this place is largely Polish. It includes 4,000 Jews and a garrison of approximately 5,000.

THE MALIGN INFLUENCE OF THE MILITARIST CULT.

In an interview given to an American newspaper correspondent, Winston Churchill intimates that in the making of any treaty one of the most potent factors for the establishment of permanent peace would be the restoration of natural boundary lines in Europe, such as would put the peoples of various races into the countries to which they naturally belong.

That this is necessary is evidenced by the tremendous influence that the Franco-Prussian treaty of 1871 has had toward the incitement of the present war.

After Germany had defeated France in the war of that period the emperor of Germany was more than ready to make a peace upon terms which would not humiliate France. He had openly stated that the war was not against the French people, but against the refugee Napoleon III., who had led his people into false strategy and defeat, and then fled rather than face the wrath of those who had so lately been his subjects. But the blood and iron hideousness cropped up in a demand of the militarist cult that for strategic reasons Germany should hold Alsace and Lorraine. The insult of the dismemberment of their territory has rankled in the French national consciousness ever since. Men born subsequent to the conclusion of hostilities have learned of it in the cradle and have grown up to cherish in their hearts an enmity against Germany which cannot be appeased by any act of diplomacy, nor wiped out by the soothing efficacy of time. France could not forget, and Alsace and Lorraine are in the minds of the millions of Frenchmen on the front today.

Not less explosive was the famous treaty of Berlin. Russia and Turkey had settled their differences of 1877 in a manner which seemed perfectly satisfactory to them and was in accord with the natural boundary lines. Servia, Bulgaria, Montenegro and Roumania seemed satisfied. But Austria, apparently afraid of a larger Servia and Bulgaria, called the Berlin conference which dictated a new treaty taking Bosnia and Herzegovina out of the original settlement, making them protectorates under Austria. This action has rankled in the minds of the Balkan states ever since, and when Austria, in 1908, arrogantly expropriated these two principalities, the match was in the gunpowder.

Giving further cause for national and religious recrimination, the powers, at the close of the Balkan war, which was largely the outcome of this arrogance of Austria, again intervened in the division of Turkish territory according to races and religions to establish the fake kingdom of Albania, thereby causing a second Balkan war and giving the whole of south-eastern Europe cause for bitterness which could not have existed had the natural divisions been permitted. The earlier arbitrary division of Poland among three nations, of Galicia among two and the theft by Germany in 1863 of Schleswig-Holstein was a piece with the rest of this unnatural geography.

Earlier arbitrary division of Poland among three nations and of Galicia among two was a piece with the rest of it.

All these divisions have been dictated by the military strategists, whose minds seem unable to absorb the simple truth that the transference of territory from one country to another settles nothing so long as the people within the territory are not party to the transfer. The transfers have gained very little for the two countries dictating them, Germany and Austria, but they have sown the dragons' teeth of racial and religious hatred in the minds of millions of people in every part of Europe, the legitimate brood of which is a world war.

The safety of Europe cannot be secured so long as the militarist cult, with its medieval doctrine of military strategy, are allowed to have a finger in the making of the boundary lines.

The statement by Winston Churchill may be taken to mean that hereafter, in the making of boundary lines, the wishes of those within the countries to be divided will be the first consideration. In other words, that the human equation, not the malign military expediency, will be the consideration dictating treaties.

BRITISH SHIPPING INCREASES IN WAR TIME.

Previous to the great French war which commenced in 1793, France had shipping in every sea. In the West Indies and a great part of America she was dominant. In India and the Orient Great Britain was hard put to hold her own. In the Mediterranean French ships were everywhere. French foreign trade was one of the great features of her national existence.

From 1793 to 1815 there was incessant war upon the high seas, during which period France devoted nearly all her naval activity to commerce destruction. Yet the imports of Britain which stood at $216,000,000 in 1792 had jumped to $358,000,000 in 1800 and throughout the Napoleonic struggle from that date to 1815 steadily increased. In 1800 the whole of the direct trade between France and the three continents of Asia, America and Africa had fallen to a mere $350,000, while that of Great Britain had risen to $350,000,000.

With all the activity of French privateers, and notwithstanding that they had naval bases in the West Indies, on the American continent and in Africa, French destruction of British trading ships never exceeded two and one-half per cent. in any year.

Germany is finding herself in the same position today. Previous to the war she traded in every sea and with every continent. Today 1200 of her ships are lying uselessly at dock in Hamburg. Three hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of German shipping lies at New York unable to put to sea. German shipping has disappeared. Her foreign trade is at a standstill. Britain's trade goes steadily on, with no interference except in the North Sea, where Germany, by mining the waters in violation of every international agreement, has managed to embarrass British trade.

In one thousand years British shipping has never diminished, but has always increased, during war time.

TURKS ARE UNDECIDED; MANY UNWILLING ENTER INTO AN OFFENSIVE WAR

London, Sept. 8.—A despatch to the Times from Constantinople, commenting on conditions there says:

Although there is still a large section of influential Turks clamoring for intervention in the present European crisis, the situation seems to be improving, owing to the precarious economic situation and the unwillingness of the reservists to take part in anything except a defensive war.

The total number of German officers in Turkey is estimated at 600. All British merchantmen in the Black sea have been ordered home.

STATED CRAZY EMPEROR QUARRELS WITH HIS TWO FORMER PET MINISTER

Rome, Sept. 8 (410 a.m.)—According to a despatch from Berlin to the Messagero, a serious controversy has arisen between the German emperor and Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, and Minister of Foreign Affairs Von Jagow, the two ministers being regarded as responsible for the unreadiness of German diplomacy which led to the coalition of European states against Germany. It is reported, according to the published despatches, that their resignations have been tendered.

TOLSTOY'S PREVISION

"This is a revelation of events of a universal character which must shortly come to pass. Their spiritual qualities are now before my eyes. I see floating on the surface of the sea of human fate the huge silhouette of a nude woman. She is—with her beauty, her poise, her smile, her jewels—a super-Venus.

"Nations rush madly after her, each of them eager to attract her especially.

"But she, like an eternal courtesan, flirts with all. In her hair ornaments of diamonds and rubies is engraved her name. 'Carnegie' ornaments of diamonds and rubies as she seems, much destruction and agony follow in her wake. Her breath, reeking of sordid transactions, her voice of metallic character like gold, and her look of greed are so much poison to the nations that fall victim to her charms.

"And to behold, she has three gigantic arms with three torches of universal corruption in her hand. The first torch represents the flame of war, that the beautiful cortezan carried from city to city and country to country. Patriotism answers with flashes of honest flame, but the end is the roar of guns and musketry.

"The second torch bears the flame of bigotry and hypocrisy. It carries the lamps only in temples and on the altars of sacred institutions. It carries the seed of falsity and fanaticism. It kindles the minds that are still in cradles and follows them to their graves.

"The third torch is that of law, that dangerous foundation of all unauthentic traditions, which first does its fatal work in the family, then sweeps through the larger worlds of literature, art and statesmanship.

"The great conflagration will start about 1912, set by the torch of the first arm in the countries of southeastern Europe. It will result in a destructively family in 1913.

In that year I see all Europe in flames and bleeding. I hear the lamentations of huge battlefields. But about the year 1915 a strange figure from the north—a new Napoleon—enters the stage of the bloody drama.

"He is a man of little military training, a writer or a journalist, but in his grip most of Europe will mark a new political era for the old world.

"There will be left no empires or kingdoms, but the world will form a federation of the United States of Nations. There will remain only the four great giants—the Anglo-Saxons, the Latins, the Slavs and the Mongolians.

An army of men is completing the landscaping of the Panama-Pacific International exposition. Huge date palms, orange trees in blossom, flowering acacias, banana plants and great tree ferns, beds of crocuses and pansies, and a concession known as the "Tid Mill" are ready. The vast "Yellowstone National Park" is fast nearing completion. The "Grand Canyon of Arizona" is now $250,000. "The Evolution of the Dinosaur," the "Forty-nine Camps," the "Dayton Flood" and the "Natchez" are a few of the many concessions that are nearing completion.

Siam will make a unique exhibit one of the features being one of the sacred white elephants which will be brought to America by King Chulalongkorn, in charge of his former Prince Rajakul, who has been appointed expedition commissioner, directing the expenditure of Siam's appropriation of $250,000.

Cochin and Indo China, with an appropriation of $150,000, will make an elaborate display of mining industries, particularly the products of the tin mines. Java and the Dutch East Indies will expend $250,000 on an especially elaborate display of their products. The land to the site on the exposition grounds was delivered to the commission in October, 1912.

The exhibit palaces will be open by day, closing at sundown, but the concessionaires for the great "Zoo" will remain open until 11 o'clock at night. Admission to the exposition grounds for adults will be 50 cents, while for children under 12 it will be 25 cents.

MUCH UNEMPLOYMENT IN GERMANY SAYS REFUGEE

London, Sept. 8.—Many Americans arriving last night from Berlin, and other continental cities, have been leaving Berlin with a column of wagons conveying German wounded. The procession of war took three hours to pass a given point.

There is much destitution in Berlin on account of unemployment. Thousands of workers have been laid off for the cheap dinner which was furnished at a nominal price to school children.

The Berlin newspapers display daily a war map which now, however, shows the progress of the armies in France and Belgium. No indication is being given of the situation on the Russian frontier.

GERMAN INDUSTRY

SMASHED TO ATOMS

SAYS BERLIN

THE REMOVAL OF ALL MEN CAPABLE OF BEARING ARMS

AWFUL EFFECT.

Copenhagen, Sept. 8.—Despatch to Great Britain says—Dr. Emminghousen, writing from the Berlin "Vossische Zeitung" discussing the extent to which German industry already has been hit by the war, says that the removal of all men capable of bearing arms has "smashed industry to atoms."

Like industry, various trades have been broken. The crisis with regard to money and credit which occurred in the first instance was accentuated by the necessity of financing the war by a single stroke. The attempts made to meet the crisis by liquidating assets only made matters worse; the unfortunate thing, he says, is that this liquidation is not in the present instance effected merely a small body of speculators, but is expressive of the fact that German industry and its production are on a terrific scale.

Complete translation, Dr. Lederer says, is necessary in order to cope with the new conditions brought about by the war. At present there is a shortage of labor. This is the apparent paradox, says Dr. Lederer, that in spite of intense good harvest, so, in the whole, much sought after labor of women cannot find employment. Day after day the streets are filled with unemployed men.

Industry is diminished. Those who continue to work are working over pressure. The demand for labor is so great that the industry which threatens Germany involves a disruption of agriculture and the supply of necessities. This war means for Germany first, the prevention of exports, and especially articles of luxury, second, prevention of importation of means of subsistence, especially raw material such as cotton and copper; third, reduction of demand of all at the front, and restriction of those remaining at home. There is no longer any demand for articles of luxury.

Against these facts, which apparently involve the gloomiest possible outlook for the near future, Dr. Lederer says there must be other equally as decisive. Germany has had a remarkable success in the war. The purchasing power of the agricultural industry is relatively big. The same thing applies to industries which supply the needs of the army and other public purposes. The problem is to use this purchasing power in such a way as to revive all those branches which supply the needs of the above mentioned industries.

The question is, however, how to build around the soldier kernel. It will require foresight and perhaps large expenditures of money, which could bring about this re-organization automatically do not exist. It must be re-organized, Dr. Lederer says, first, the amount of available labor is considerably reduced; second, available raw materials probably will not be sufficient for a long time; third, the needs of private industry have during the war, undergone a considerable diminution and change. These facts, first recognized, then a system of plan of re-organization must be drawn up with the help of chambers of commerce and similar organizations.

The writer concludes by recommending the formation of a central planning committee representing all interests in order to control the ministry of interior to see what can be done.

This is the first German article I have seen which admits the unhappy situation of German industry. The future will show whether the timorous expedient of appointing a committee to inquire will compensate for the economic unsoundness of foundations whereon it rests.

SECOND GAME OF INTER-CITY SERIES IS WON BY CALGARY

Owing to Rain Championship is Not Yet Decided—Both Teams Made Rally in Ninth—Final Contest Will Be Played Tuesday.

Calgary, Sept. 8.—The amateur baseball championship of Alberta is still undecided for rain interfered with the deciding game of the series between the Edmonton City Dairies and the Calgary Athletics. The final game will be played on Tuesday if the weather permits. The morning game was won by the Calgary team after an exciting ninth inning rally in which both teams participated. Calgary was leading 2 to 1 at the end of the eighth inning. In the first of the ninth Umpire Dyer made a decision at second base which was far from popular when he declared Murphy safe. Martin followed with a home run over the center field fence, scoring Murphy.

BIG FOUR UNION ADOPTS SEASON'S RUGBY SCHEDULE

Argonauts Meet Tigers and Montreal Plays Ottawa on October 10

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—The decision to play a benefit game between teams picked from the eastern and western ends of the Big Four in aid of the Canadian patriotic fund was the feature of the semi-annual meeting of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union held Saturday afternoon. In the morning game the locals recovered their batting eyes and slaughtered Harrah's offerings, winning handily 9-3. Joe Berger pitched one of the greatest games of his career in the evening, letting Moose Jaw down with one hit for seven innings, when the game was called on account of darkness. Berger also started the rally in the fifth, which brought victory. He leaned on the ball for three bases and Jack Smith immediately followed with another. This upset Canconan and two walks were followed by Scott's third hit in a row.

Tame Match
Hudson, Wisc., Sept. 8.—Johnny Tillman, Minneapolis, lightweight, and Leach Cross went ten rounds to a draw at Hudson Monday in a match that neither excited the spectators nor the fighters.

Next the close of the match both Tillman's manager and Referee Duff announced that Tillman had broken his right hand in the fourth round, which they say accounted for the dullness of the go. Tillman had about three rounds by popular decision, the remainder being about even. Tillman surprised his local followers by the showing he made in spite of the crippled right.

Gibbons the Winner
Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 8.—Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, won the decision over George Brown, of Chicago, at the end of a ten round match here today. Electric fans have made it possible for churches and theaters in southern India to remain open all summer.

and generous size

HAVE you noticed that about Ben Beys—that they're bigger, as well as better, than most cigars that sell for fifteen cents? This generous size—at ten cents (3 for 25c.)—means more than it measures. It means tobacco so well-cured, so smoothly blended, and so well-rolled, that a long smoke of it is all good.

Some cigars are good enough for the first couple of inches. Then you begin to get that "dark brown" taste.

Not so Ben Beys. Full of flavour—satisfying aroma—but no rankness, burn or bite. That means they won't hurt your nerves.
